

FCC Commissioners,

Title 2 oversight of ISPs is vital to individual freedom while using the internet. I support net neutrality and oppose the repeal of net neutrality rules. The majority of Americans support net neutrality, most businesses support net neutrality, and it is the FCC's mandate to regulate in favor of the people living within the 50 states in which the FCC's mandate covers.

According to Section 1 of the Communications Act of 1934, and as amended by the Telecommunications Act of 1996, the FCC's top priority is to "make available so far as possible, to all the people of the United States, without discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, or sex, rapid, efficient, Nationwide, and world-wide wire and radio communication services with adequate facilities at reasonable charges." The repeal of net neutrality, in fact, will allow ISPs to discriminate against people with no repercussions. This is a civil rights issue.

History will be unkind to the legacy of this time period, no doubt, and will point directly to the FCC, Chairman Pai, and everyone who did not stand against the repeal of net neutrality if this is allowed to take place. Do not make such a huge mistake. Do not allow ISPs to discriminate against certain populations. Do not upend the freedom of the internet.

Make the right decision. Stand up to Chairman Pai and the current administration's lack of compassion, empathy, and understanding of basic human dignity and freedom.

I appreciate your time,

Erica Willis
